CONFERENCE AND KEYNOTE PROGRAM PREVIEW

The third edition of the biggest Latin audiovisual industry event of the year is set to include a rich program of conferences and keynotes delivered by leading figures and major players in the sector. These sessions will address the current state and the latest trends of the industry, and will focus on business and innovation solutions, creativity and talent, sport and broadcasting, funding and business, artificial intelligence, market intelligence, and sustainability

Several keynotes on business and innovation will be given, with the participation of Movistar Plus+ and Axel Kuschevatzky, film producer, screenwriter, and journalist (Argentina, 1985). The program also includes a conference on future trends led by Ana Bond, Senior VP & General Director of International Production, at Sony Pictures Television (USA) and Atresmedia (Spain), and a round table discussion with Erik Barmack, CEO & Founder of Wild Sheep Content LLC (USA) and Ran Tellem, Head of International Development of The Mediapro Studio (Spain) on creative strategies for the future.

A number of industry pioneers who are reshaping traditional business models will share their insights on the future of entertainment and co-productions, as well as outlining key partnerships for the creation of universal content and what to expect in this ever-changing business landscape. These include Fidela Navarro, CEO of Dopamine (Mexico), Laura Abril, EVP of Scripted and Global Business Development at Buendía Estudios (Spain), Sara Fernández-Velasco, CEO of Grupo iZen (Spain), and David Martínez,

Director of Fiction at Secuoya Studios. Other executives and senior industry figures are expected to join the conference and keynotes program.

Creatives, filmmakers, screenwriters, authors, and leading directors such as Berta Prieto, co-creator of the series "Autodefensa", Filmin (Spain); Carlos Montero, showrunner for "Todas las veces que nos enamoramos" and "Élite" (Spain); Leonardo Padrón, creator of "Pálpito", Netflix (USA); Estela Renner, co-founder of María Farinha Films and creator of the series "Esperanza" (Brazil), and Miguel Valladares, CEO of Tondero (Peru), will also share their personal experiences. Each of the sessions will address the impact of new generations' consumer habits on the creative process, and how it's possible to bring about change through content, emphasizing the importance of inclusive storytelling, with more opportunities than ever before for films and series to inspire and raise social awareness.

International buyers, commissioners, and studio heads will discuss global trends and share their editorial strategies. Jaume Ripoll, co-founder of Filmin (Spain) and Antonio Augusto Valente, Content Strategy Manager of Globo (Brazil), will be joined by other leading experts to share the content they look for and where they invest, the co-production agreements they currently have, and the strategies they have adopted in order to ensure continued growth and audience retention.

The panel "New agents: financial solutions in audiovisual production" will address how and where major financial institutions invest capital in the audiovisual industry, what they look for, opportunities in the sector, and how producers, distributors, and creative professionals can access funding. This will be led by Georgina Borbolla, CEO of Bold Finance, Exitus Capital (Mexico) and Diego Rodríguez, CEO of La Charito Films (Spain), among others.

There will also be scope for analysis of the artificial intelligence revolution in the audiovisual industry, which is fast becoming an integral part of the content production process, opening the door to a wealth of possibilities. Industry professionals who use virtual production in both film and television will discover how it can be leveraged to dramatically increase production value, accelerate schedules, and reduce costs. This session will be presented by Alexandra Falla, Director of Fundación Patrimonio Fílmico Colombiano (Colombia) and Álvaro Manzano, Managing Director Media Industry of Accenture (Spain).

Other highlights will include the participation of Gloria Saló, Director of Production and Content Consulting at GECA (Spain) for the session "Iberficción. Future trends presented by Teleformat (GECA)", on the evolution of content, free-to-air broadcasts shared with platforms and social networks, fragmented audiences and niche channels. It will also shed light on what the Latin audiovisual market will look like over the coming months and what variables must be taken into account in order to predict, preempt, and innovate in an ever-changing audiovisual landscape.
